

HARBOR PATROL

An overall view of a section of the Hong Kong harbor.

Off the Kwangtung Coast of southern China, at the mouth of the Chu Kiang River, is the deep sheltered harbor of Hong Kong. Over its 17 square miles, with east and west entrances, pass ships up to 40,000 tons, crossing bows with a continual flow of sampans, junks, ferries and yachts of all sizes.

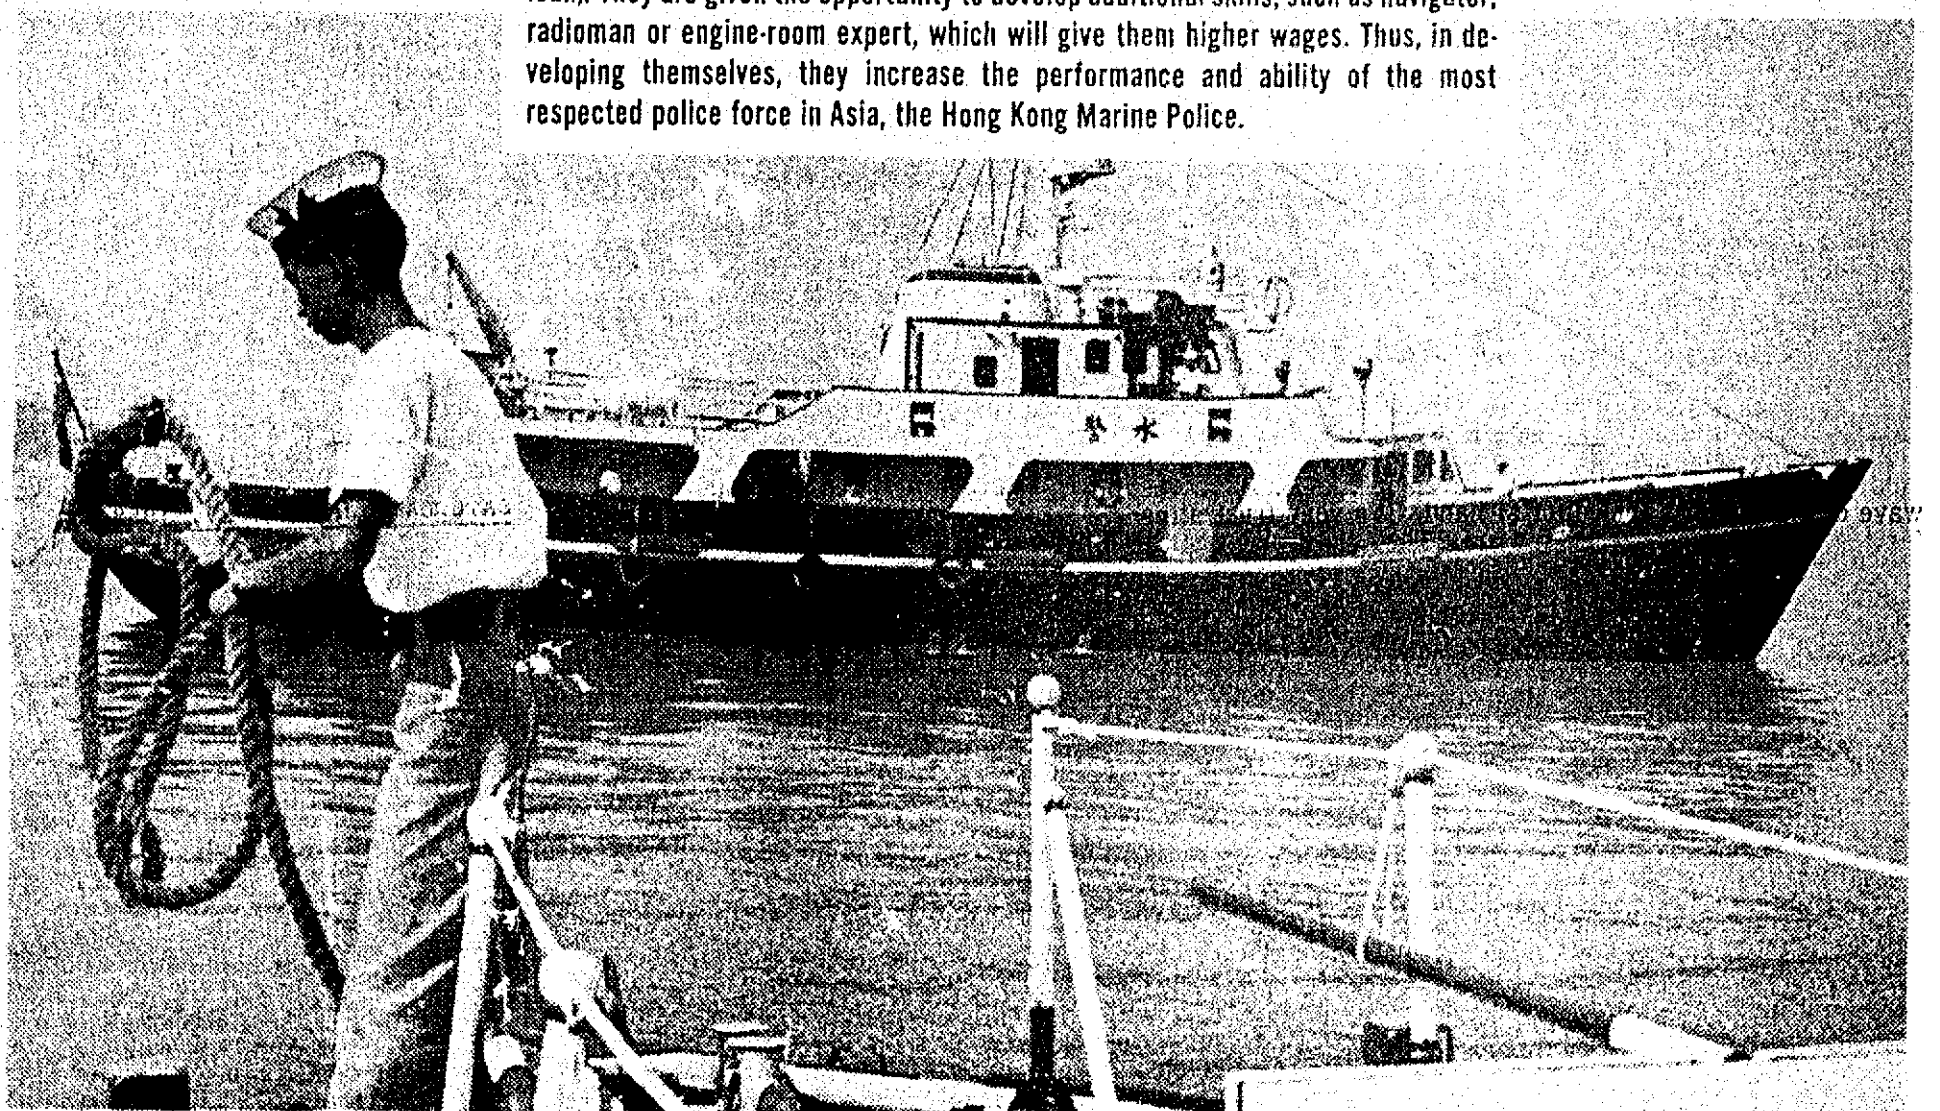

Patrolling this area to deal with routine inspections of licenses, life preservers, fire-fighting equipment and general ship conditions is the Hong Kong Marine Police. Under British superintendents, the 2,000-man force, 98% Chinese, also make periodic searches of suspicious vessels for smuggled drugs or would-be immigrants fleeing the Communist China mainland. Monthly, some 50 to 200 of these refugees are caught and returned.

The harbor areas, and waters up to the Red Chinese 'dividing line', are part of the patrol run. Also, four-day "village penetration patrols" move through Kowloon Peninsula and the 20-odd inhabited islands within the territorial waters, bringing to some villages the only outside authority they ever see.

For this effort, the men receive $400 Hong Kong dollars monthly ($90 American). They are given the opportunity to develop additional skills, such as navigator, radioman or engine-room expert, which will give them higher wages. Thus, in developing themselves, they increase the performance and ability of the most respected police force in Asia, the Hong Kong Marine Police.

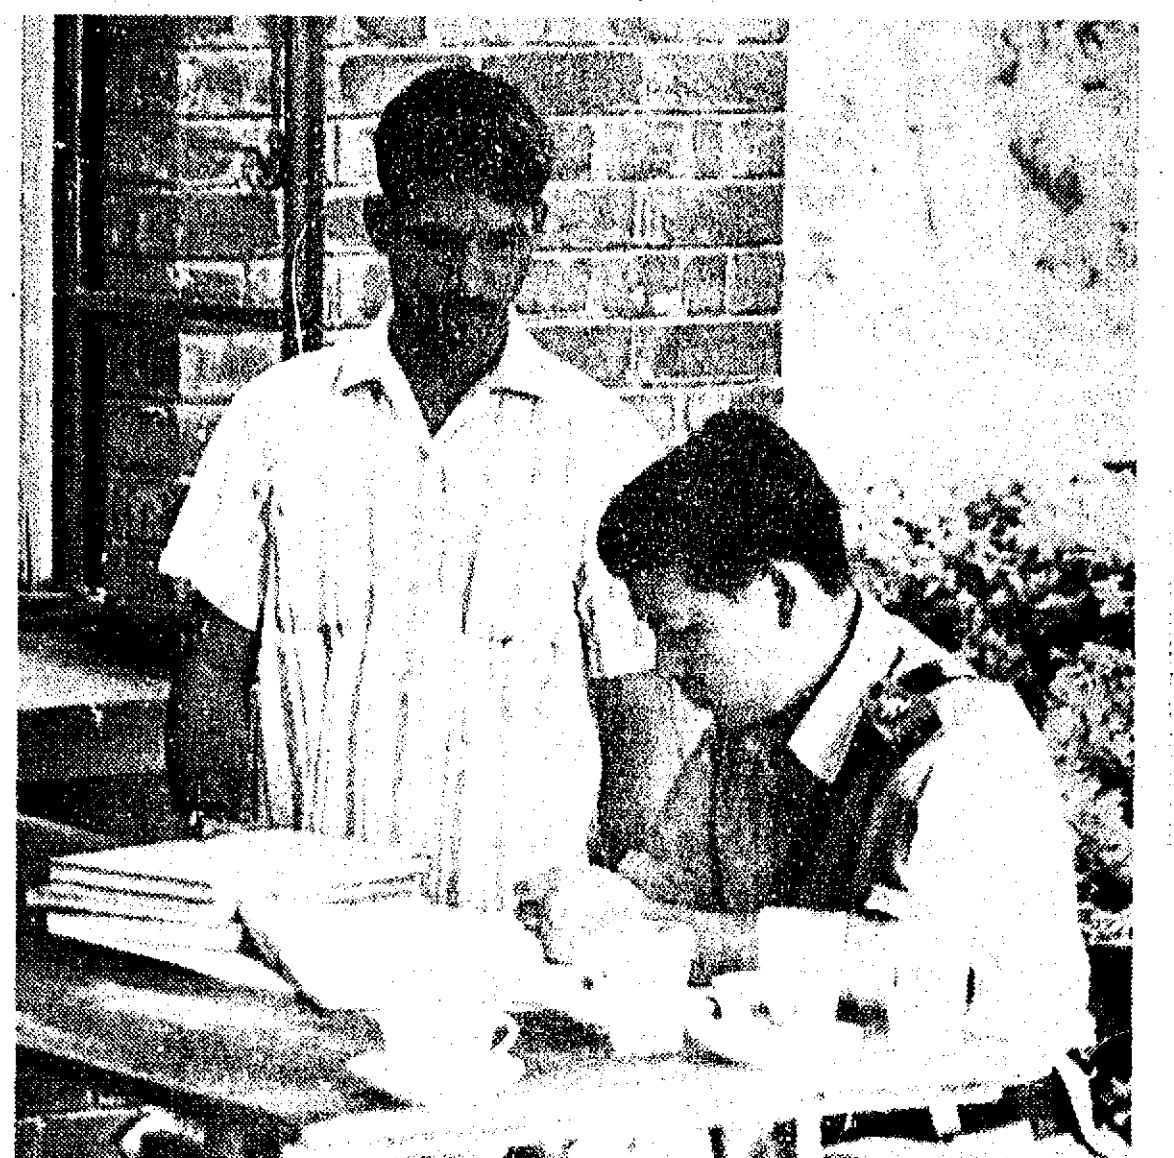

A Royal Air Force helicopter moves over a junk at high sea. Such a flight is a daily routine and radio contact is maintained with the Harbor Police in the area below.

One of the Marine Police boats, with speeds up to 15 knots. Its 20-man crew is on duty 72 hours.

At a "walla-walla", or water-taxi, Inspector K. T. Wong, with crew members, investigates licenses and the ship's interior.

Inspector K. T. Wong, seated, makes a routine check of log books and inventory lists at an outpost island station just outside Hong Kong harbor while the station manager looks on.

Youth Beat

THE NATIONAL REPORT ON WHAT'S HAPPENING

Best guestimates are that 20 per cent of America's adolescents are heavy enough to be considered a medical problem. Obesity frequently accompanies a less-than-meaningful school record. Also tends toward a continuing "overweight" problem as an adult. Harvard nutritionist, Jean Mayer, states that 80 per cent of all obese children remain overweight throughout their adult lives. Critical age, says Dr. Mayer, is 9. Children overweight before 9 usually remain super-sized forever and forever.

A companion of "overweight" is malnutrition. Another, say psychiatrists, is "abnormal self-loathing."

The instant-breakfast-food people are pushing and pulling on everyone in an effort to get young America to the breakfast table—at least to the cupboard to pour and stir a "gulf-special." Shake it, shake it, they say—and all will be well, well, well.

Flower Parents Find Solace: Parents of flower children meet together in an effort to understand why their runaways have "dropped out." In the main they keep each other's spirits up but plan to take a more definite direction toward helping their young in the near future. They live on hope and live with unhappiness.

Three S's: Three S's being plugged by fashion trade—(shirt, sweater and skirt)! Sure-fire way to a sell more merchandise. b) skirt the mini-midi conflict, c) skirt a real opinion. Youth Beat says skirts will remain short—get wider!

The Undecided Decided Hemline: Latest hedge of the phony baloney fashion gurus is the "undecided hemline." Should have a descriptive subtitle, "For Fence Straddling." Pierre Cardin has "designed" a skirt shape that is higher in the back of the knee. Women's Wear Daily enthuses by saying, "It's new! It's wild! It's fun!" (Don't they know that teens beginning to sew in home ec classes have had slanting hemlines for years?) The giggle is that the fashion experts are shoveling sand against new kind of tide—YOUTH TIDE. Short skirts just won't "go away" (even in the back) at the wave of a designer's (or editor's) hand. It's very frustrating for trade magazines to understand. They now place more attention on "beauty" to cover their own skin. The youth tide is flooding the sacred media of the fashion establishment.

Waitress Wants Voice: In answer to our passing on of a familiar teen complaint—that service people give teens short shrift in eateries—the waitresses of the world want their say. Teens take up a large table for a large amount of time, spending little money and generally being disrespectful to the help. It's bound to bug the ladies of the ladle. Probably a lot would be overlooked—spending and time-wise—if the kids were superpolite and an asset to the restaurant.

OUR UGLY FRIEND THE TURTLE has quickly become the growing voice of authority as a new skin preparation. Deep cleansing foam smooths on like whipped cream. Scrub, a nutty blend of almonds, honey and oil of the turtle blends to give you a powerful facial. Grainy in feel, it massages away extra oil and soothes areas prone to scaling. Cream or foam moisturizer removes that tightly drawn feeling your face may experience upon waking in the a.m. Night Concentrate protects while you sleep and the Deep Sea Bath Treatment applied after you step from the tub is genuinely a treat and leaves you smelling and feeling very girly. A skin gift from your poky friend.

PUNISHMENT TO TURN PARANOID BY
Dear Helen: My mother is making me paranoid. I never know what wild "get-even" thing she'll think of next.

Here's an example—not the worst. Dinner was late and I had to catch my ride to the library or walk a mile in the dark. My dad said it was all right to leave the dishes for later, but my mother didn't know because she'd got mad half way through eating and walked out.
Everyone was in bed when I came home. The kitchen looked clean and I thought Dad had come to my rescue—I knew my mother wouldn't have touched it. I if your father doesn't get it for undressed quick, using only the night light.
Then I jumped into bed—on top of all those dirty dishes, knives included. She'd put them under the

be referred to the counselling

Dear Helen: I thought I was the only girl who was like "Not the Marrying Kind—Yet." It seems that my girl friends' whole world revolves around boys, and wedding, though they don't seem to think much past that walk down the aisle.

Well, I have to admit, I can't live without boys either—what girl can? But I'm not about to marry one of them until I've lived, lived, lived! I'm gonna see what's on the other side of the hill before I make my nest, and
I'm not gonna cry like one girl
I know, who still mourns the loss of a boy she dated two years ago.
When I find the right man, he'll know it, and then, when I'm about 26, I'll settle down and be a walking baby factory. I want at least eight kids—and my marriage will last forever. —SOPHOMORE

Dear Sophomore: Write to me when you're 26 and we'll see how close you've come to making it...
That is, if Helen Help Us is still "making it" then. —H

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

Few Dental Problems Need Quick Decisions

involved.

Major dental procedures usually involve combined efforts of more than one specialty. For instance, splinting or capping may be the primary concern of the prosthodontist, but also vitally concerned are the periodontist who must first treat the gums and bone that support teeth; the orthodontist who may have to move teeth to a more strategic or esthetic position; the endodontist who may have to save an important tooth by root canal therapy and the endodontist to extract teeth that can't be salvaged.

For patients, only good comes from consultation. It's an excellent means of learning about yourself and your illness, and thus gives you an opportunity to take an active role in decision making. Listen carefully to what's told you, and question carefully (without being picky about technical details) until you understand how much work, time and money are required, and what the prognosis is—the near view and the far view.

But don't shop around for the best price; you're apt to get stung. And don't ask for a guarantee. It's not like buying something in a hardware store.

Every case has an "ideal" solution and one or more alternatives. The ideal solution may not be ideal for you. You may not have the physical or mental strength, or the time and money. Or you may not want to undergo any cosmetic change. A less-complicated treatment plan may suit you better in many ways.

Some people get so emotionally upset by any serious health problem they can't make decisions about it. Try not to get excited. Very few major dental problems require quick decisions so take your time and think the problem out.

ROMANTIC PITCH ... Surprised in the act of changing clothes at a barnyard hideaway, outlaw James Coburn tries to soft soap a skeptical Margaret Rive with a romantic pitch in this scene from "Waterhole #3," a Blake Edwards production for Paramount Pictures.

James Garner, as a U.S. Navy Commander stationed in London during World War II, and British volunteer driver Julie Andrews are the romantic duo of the rollicking comedy-adventure, "EMILY," also starring Melvyn Douglas and James Coburn. The Martin Ransohoff production is presented by MGM.

Mrs. Orr, though proud of her son's hockey success, does not like to see him play.

"She's always making excuses why she can't make the games," said Bobby. "She thinks it's too rough, especially when I'm playing."

"When Bobby's in the center of a lot of rough stuff," said Mrs. Orr. "I hide my head in my purse."

Mrs. Orr recalled the time she and Bobby's aunt, Margaret Atherton, and father Douglas journeyed to Oshawa to see a game. Bobby had recently left Parry Sound.

"He was playing at a little rink," said Mrs. Orr. "We sat alongside the low board. And of all things he got into a scuffle right in front of us."

"Well, Margaret started shouting. 'You can't hit my little nephew.' And she poked the guy. Did she ever! He lifted Bobby and she lifted him."

"Douglass had to pull her off. I could have jumped in for a few kicks, too. But Margaret had taught him his lesson."

Hope Girls Win Over Spring Hill

By RALPH ROUNTON
Star Sports Writer

Pulling through with another of their machine-type wins, the Hope Lady Cats marched to their 11th straight win last night, crushing the Spring Hill Bearettes 64-25 at Spring Hill.

Now the Lady Cats are 19-4 on the year, having won 17 of their last 18 games. And once again last night, the Lady Cats proved their invincibility of late, with a changed-around game plan which worked out all right any way.

For the first time this year, Coach Charlotte Gibson held out her starters at the tip-off, and for the whole first quarter those six seniors remained on the bench. Meanwhile the reserves were making a good account of themselves, pulling up at the end to cut the Hope deficit to 18-9.

So the starters came in trailing by nine, and this new situation showed as the Lady Cats tried too hard for the first couple of minutes before finally settling down. The guards had no problem, and a 16-2 second quarter sent Hope ahead 25-20 at half-time.

But the Lady Cats were murdered in the third segment. While the forwards kept up their shooting pace (50 per cent from the field, 83 per cent from the foul line), the guards went through their second period in a row without allowing a field goal. Put those ingredients all together and it comes out 19-1 for Hope, so the Lady Cats led 44-21 after three quarters.

For the rest of the game it was more of the same, with the pressuring Lady Cats applying everything correctly. To be sure, the Hope teams last night had to put up with some questionable officiating, but sometimes that just happens.

Kathryn Coleman boosted her average once more by sacking up 22 points to lead the Lady Cats, while Carol Anthony added 21. Gail Hartsfield had 12 on a good night, Jo McKamie popped 5, and Sandra May and Debbie Powell sank two each.

In the evening's finale, the Hope "B" Lizards fought long and hard before falling to the Spring Hill Bears 55-51.

The game itself was a real battle, with the teams locked up at 23-23 at intermission. However, the Hope boys lost a five-point lead in the final minutes and the ball game.

Guard Terry Turner meshed 17 points to pace the "B" Lizards, but Thomas Norvell and Ronny Brown also hit the double figures, with 14 and 10 respectively. Larry Powell hit 16 and Ronnie Barham and Thomas Leonard each scored 10 to lead the winners.

Trying to make a replay of their earlier comeback win over Spring Hill, the Hope Jr. Girls could not quite manage it this time, losing to Spring Hill 38-30.

Throughout the contest Hope was playing catch-up, but the final push began with the Kitty Cats behind 29-20 and 5:00 left. Once the lead was out to four, 34-30, with 90 seconds to go, but two free shots gave Spring Hill the insurance before a deafeningly loud and partisan crowd.

It was the Kitty Cats' final game of the season, and unless any more are scheduled they will wind up at 3-7. Dee Singleton wound up the year with a good performance, canning 17 points. Lois Ford had six, Melissa Jordan four, and Cindy Hollis three to wrap up the scoring. Freeda Aaron led Spring Hill with 21 points.

Therefore, now the girls' teams have a while to rest, but the "B" Lizards are just on the brink of their 4-AA schedule, which will include most of the other teams in the Western Division of 4-AA.

As of this writer's deadline, nothing has yet been received on the Bobcats' game with Camden Lincoln, but the report will be ready by Monday.

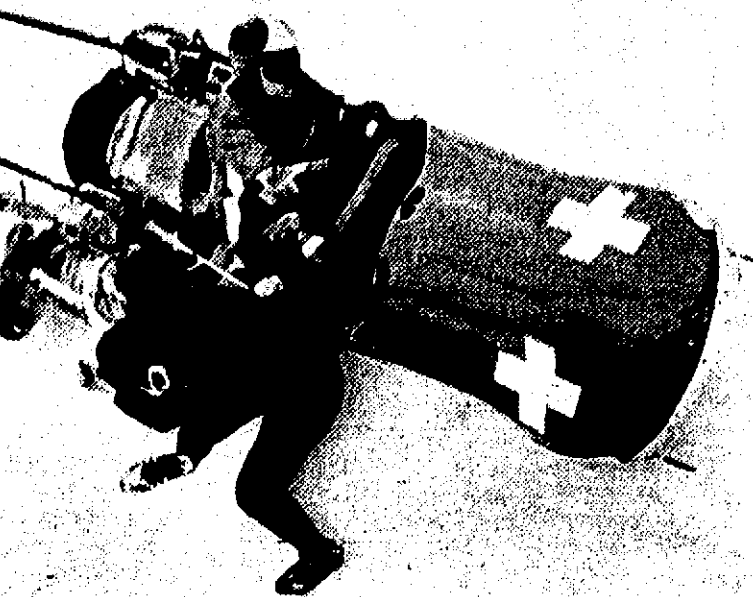

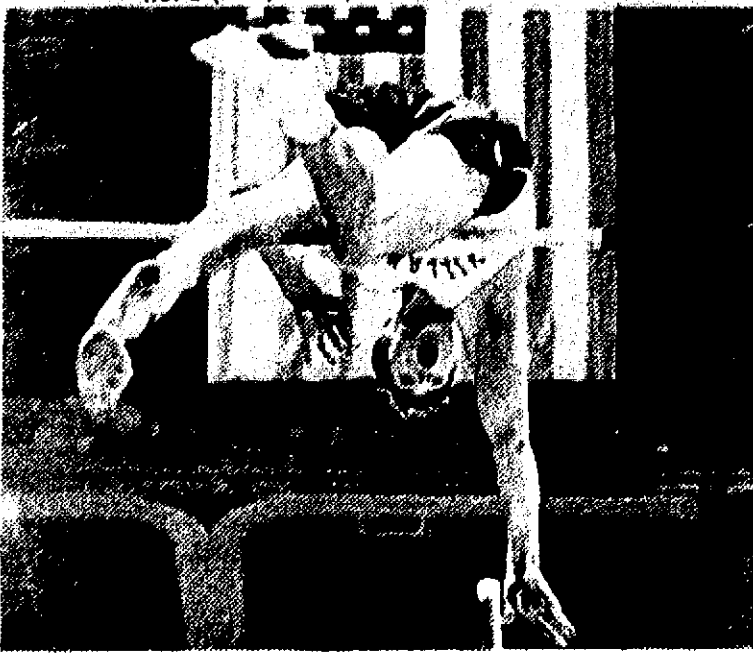

Tonight the Bobkittens and the Bobcats play host to the Arkadelphia Badgers at Jones Field House. First game will begin at 6:30 p.m., and both games will be broadcast live over KXAR.

India Displays Soviet Weapon

NEW DELHI (AP) — A Soviet anti-aircraft missile, part of India's arsenal for several years but never before publicly acknowledged, was the highlight of a parade today marking India's 18th anniversary as a republic.

Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin and Yugoslav President Tito were guests of honor at the three-hour parade, sitting with Indian President Zakir Hussain and Prime Minister Indira Gandhi on the reviewing stand.

No Time for Lasagna

When he gets anywhere in the vicinity of Brooklyn, Joe Torre smells trouble. The trouble is the hot, steaming fragrance of lasagna right out of Mamma Torre's oven. So Joe, wearing alligator shoes and a turtle-neck shirt which got him banished from a fashionable hotel dining salon, stuck strictly to Manhattan on a visit from Atlanta.

Joe, recovering from an ankle operation, is concentrating on keeping his weight at 210 pounds. And though he loves Mamma Torre very much, he wants to stay away from her kitchen in Brooklyn.

JOE TORRE

League's All-Star catcher.

"I took the quick dive after that," Joe said. "I wound up at .277. Was it the injury? I have to attribute it to that." After all, he has to have some excuses when he starts talking salary with the Braves. For three weeks after his original injury, Joe stayed out of the lineup, and there wasn't a wire service line about him.

Maybe everybody thought Joe was injury proof. The stocky catcher had only missed five days previously in his career because of injury, a pulled hamstring muscle in 1965. On July 4, he started behind the plate again, despite a pronounced limp, and played the rest of the season.

Ironically, Torre had less trouble playing behind the plate than in occasional stunts at first base, where the quick stops and starts of fielding put extra pressure on his bad ankle. On Oct. 9, he submitted to an operation in Atlanta, which he now makes home. The decision was his. The doctor removed a piece of bone which had chipped off and also repaired frayed ligaments. With his cast now off, Torre is following only one prescribed exercise — run! The Braves have asked him to report to training camp a month ahead of time, with the early contingent. At the age of 27, he expects no trouble in bouncing back.

"How," he was asked, "do you think you'll run?" ... He winked and answered, "The same as before."

Who would you guess is the foreign golfer who's won the most money in any one year on American tour? Gary Player? Come again. Roberto Devenenzo? Nope. Bruce Devlin? You're still off. It's Bob Charles, the southpaw from New Zealand, whose $72,468.18 last year topped Player's best total by $3,000.

Between you'n'me, the biggest problem facing the second American Airlines Astrojet Golf Classic (with a top prize of $10,000 for the winning team) is how to handicap the competing baseball and football stars honestly. They solved it by putting three baseball and three football players on a handicap committee. They need an abacus for guys like Frank Howard of the Senators, whose handicap is 34 (he asked innocently, "For nine holes?").

No Fun for 'Fat Man'

By TOMMY THOMAS
NEA Sports Writer

NEW YORK—(NEA)—If you happen to be in a pool room in, say, Kenosha, Wis., and a pudgy, gray-haired man walks in who claims his name is Rudolf Wanderone and wants to know if you'd like to shoot a little nine-ball for a couple hundred, that's the time to check in your cue.

It's not likely that will happen, however, since the world's most famous hustler, also known as Minnesota Fats, is more or less out of action. Since Jackie Gleason portrayed the fat man seven years ago in "The Hustler," Mr. Fats has probably spent more time in television studios and press interviews than in pool halls. Most of his skill is now displayed in exhibitions.

"Since I got all that publicity from the movie I've been leading a different kind of existence," he says. "For one thing, I've got my own company which makes pool tables, cues and accessories. But being an executive isn't my kind of life. It has a concentration camp effect on me. I didn't have a gray hair two years ago. I see why those guys take pills and drink and smoke so much. I've even thought about going back on the road hustling."

"And I'm always making television appearances, which is supposed to be good exposure. They tell me once you've been on the Johnny Carson, Joey Bishop and Today shows, you have the world locked up. I was well-known in sporting circles before but now everybody knows me. But it's not worth it. When I was hustling I would stay up for weeks at a time and then sleep for several days. Since I quit I never get any rest."

Minnesota Fats didn't always move at such a rapid pace. He says it used to take him as long as four years to span the country.

"I won everybody's respect as well as their money," he recalls. "They learned fast that when I walked into a pool hall I dominated it. They knew who the boss was and that I would mop up the place. That sounds like overconfidence but that's why I'm the best. My attitude is what made my game so great."

Times weren't always as great as his game, however. "In the summer, it was almost impossible to get games," he remembers. "The pool rooms were too hot and some of the flea joints I hung around in you had to carry a gas mask and flit-gun to survive. So the summers were pretty lean but I lived high the rest of the year."

Today, at 55 and 265 pounds, he lives pretty well all year round. Since he's run out of challengers, the big money games that lasted for days at a time are all in the past. But his competitive edge is still keen and he says, "If some guy in Siberia or some-

Alaska, thought he could beat me and had the cash I would probably go."

Chances are you're more apt to find Minnesota Fats shooting pool with Hollywood

'Pistol Pete' Guns Cats

BATON ROUGE, La. — (NEA)—If a Louisiana sports fan tells you it's been a successful month for LSU, you assume he means the Tigers' Sugar Bowl victory over Wyoming on New Year's Day. Could be, though, he's referring to the Southeast Conference basketball contenders.

By winning their first four SEC games this season, the Bayou Bengals have already surpassed their total number of wins for last year's entire season. After finishing last in the league the past two years, LSU is now a threat to nationally ranked Kentucky and Tennessee in the '68 race.

Should the Tigers triumph it would be their first conference title since 1953-54, when a guy named Bob Pettit supplied the firepower. LSU has finally come up with another big gun—a sophomore called "Pistol Pete" Maravich.

The 6-5, 180-pound guard from Raleigh, N. C., is the nation's leading scorer, averaging around 46 points per game. He popped in 53 against Mississippi State and scored 20 points in the last nine minutes in the Georgia game, finishing with 42 for the night. Similar performances helped the Tigers take a 5-1 SEC record into the final exam week break.

What makes it more exciting to LSU fans is the fact that four of the starters are sophomores. And Ralph Jukola, the team's only junior, is hitting nearly 70 per cent of his field goal attempts. He's first in the conference and second in the nation in that department.

The Tigers' height, or lack of it, is another interesting

NEW YORK, N.Y.—(NEA)—The human race started the Industrial Revolution and won, but it may have been a Pyrrhic victory.

The price paid for economic explosion was polluted lakes and rivers and noxious air. In this respect, man has shown less intelligence than his animal friends: He brought home the bacon, but fouled the nest.

"All that is left of that revolution," says Assistant Secretary of Agriculture John A. Baker, "is the mopping-up stage."

Baker, in a recent address to the Isaac Walton League, says the world—and this country in particular—has come to the crossroads. "One fork," he explained, "will lead to further population impaction in ungilded ghettos; it will lead to the endless spread of seamless, monotonous, ugly, unrelieved strip-city sprawl."

Obviously, Baker maintains, we must choose the other fork. "... the fork that leads to an intelligent use of the geographic space of this world and the gains of the Industrial Revolution to build a higher grade of civilization."

Merely cleaning up the present mess, Baker warns, is only one part of the solution. To insure a habitable world requires long-range planning of tomorrow's communities, meshing society's economic desires with its spiritual needs.

Toward this end, Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman has instituted two major programs: "Resources in Action — Agriculture/2000," and "Communities of Tomorrow."

The goal of these programs is a rural renaissance, "... a renaissance that (will make) rural America both attractive and prosperous for rural Americans and also attractive and recreational for the urban American," Baker said.

To implement this, Baker went on, would require thinking along multicounty lines (regional hospitals, airports, libraries, etc.); devising ways to plan and administer multicounty communities, and perhaps, federal aid to build new towns. In short, decentralization of the population. Bring the city to the country, but do it intelligently, Baker calls this "creative conservation," and "creative federalism."

aspect of their success. Jukola is 6-3 and guards Jeff Tribbett and Rich Hickman are both only 6-0. Center Randy Lamont, at 6-8, is the only giant. Still, Maravich and his mates are getting their share of the rebounds. But when Pistol Pete starts firing there's usually no rebound to be had.

Florida's Tommy Bartlett, the only SEC coach to stop LSU thus far says, "You won't believe this boy until you see him in action. He has every shot, every move you could imagine."

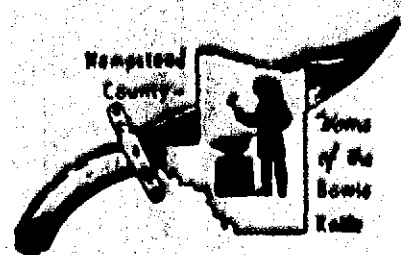

There's a chance Pistol Pete may be even hotter if he returns from mid-semester break with a few more pointers he picked up at home. His father, Press Maravich, is the LSU coach.

The Mail Explosion

To sell the obsolete 6-cent stamps, the Post Office Department needs an extra 1-billion penny stamps. To enact the new postal increases and change stamp machines, the department will spend about $22-million. That is a commentary on the current state of the postal service. To get ahead, it slips behind.

The $800-million increase in postage rates was approved by Congress in a year of a $1.2-billion deficit, but most of the additional funds will go into deferred pay raises. Working conditions in the postal service outraged members of the presidential postal study commission in an October inspection.

The 6-cent surface letter and 10-cent air mail charge, clearly, are a holding action to keep workers from drifting into private employ and to keep the system staggering along under the burden of 83-billion pieces of mail a year.

Postmaster General Lawrence O'Brien, who once said that if the trend continues every able-bodied male would be working for the post office in the next century, has called the annual adjustments by Congress "only props for a tottering structure we now inhabit so uneasily."

Last April 3 he ventured the proposal for a public corporation to take over the service, with authority to issue bonds for modernizing facilities. The corporation would be insulated from the politics, yet remain accountable to Congress for efficiency.

This is the type of daring that should capture the interest of the presidential commission, rather than concentration on what to do about the daily peak after 4 p.m., the tremendous workload of the evening shift, and an even more complicated rate structure. Unless there is innovation, there can be collapse. - St. Petersburg (Fla.) Times.

Sen. Fulbright Lists Reasons for Incident

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., said Thursday night that the "deep commitments of this country and the obvious difficulties we'd have responding anywhere else" may have sparked North Korea's seizure of the Navy intelligence ship Pueblo.

Fulbright, in a reference to the Gulf of Tonkin resolution, said Congress would not pass a resolution on Korea "in 24 hours." The Tonkin resolution was approved by Congress in 1964 after American destroyers were allegedly fired on by North Vietnamese gunboats while in international waters.

"An intelligence ship off your coast is very irritating," Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said in a speech here. "Only a few months ago, our good friends, the Israelis, shot one of our ships right out of the sea."

"People for some reason object to eysdropping," he said. "North Vietnam objected to it in 1964, the Israelis objected to it and now the North Koreans are objecting to it. I don't see what was so important about the gossip to have a ship of this type go in there."

Fulbright said earlier in the day that many countries could interpret the callup as mobilization. "That is, all-out war," he said. He had hoped United Nations procedures could have been employed a while longer before resorting to the callup. Fulbright said in his speech that neither he nor anyone else knew the real facts of the Pueblo incident.

Fulbright said he felt the North Koreans should release the ship no matter where it was seized.

Capture of the USS Pueblo, an intelligence-gathering ship, by North Korean units in international waters 25 miles off the Korean coast threatened to raise to crisis level a steady escalation of incidents in Korea during recent months. The seizure came on the heels of a thwarted attempt by North Korean infiltrators to blow up the presidential palace in Seoul and assassinate South Korean government leaders. For months, infiltration of Communist agents has been increasing and shooting incidents have flared along the cease-fire line between North and South Korea.

Mobilization of Reservists Is Supported

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's limited mobilization of reserve army men is receiving general support from members of Congress, many of whom reacted angrily to North Korea's refusal to release the captured intelligence ship Pueblo.

But there also was increasing grumbling Thursday that Congress hasn't been told enough about the circumstances surrounding the ship's seizure and some talk of a possible congressional investigation.

Those supporting the mobilization generally expressed hope it demonstrated U.S. firmness they felt could spur release of the Pueblo without hostilities.

The President called nearly 14,800 airmen to active duty in the continuing stalemate over U.S. efforts to obtain release of the Pueblo and the 83 Americans aboard.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said it was important, in view of the uncertain situation, to entrust to the President "this added responsibility" for decision-making on the Pueblo incident.

Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California, deputy Republican leader, said the call-up was necessary. He urged firmness without war hysteria.

Kuchel said Johnson had a duty "to explain the circumstances as fully and as soon as national security permits."

Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., proposed a congressional investigation of "the policy of sending these ships into dangerous waters without air cover."

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., asked for a full explanation from the administration by Monday, and proposed that otherwise the Senate conduct its own inquiry.

Electric Chair Has Been Disconnected

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — John H. Haley, chairman of the state Penitentiary Commission, said Thursday that the state's electric chair has been disconnected and placed in storage.

Haley said the electric chair, which has not been used since 1964, was taken out because "we need the space." He was asked if the removal of the chair meant the repeal of capital punishment in Arkansas was a possibility.

"Well, we've fired the executioner and taken out the electric chair," Haley said.

Backseat Driver All the Way

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — With a backseat driver all the way, Bill Carroll drove 25,000 miles from Anchorage, Alaska, to the tip of South America and part of the way back.

Carroll, after getting his wife Renee and the family sedan back safely, said Thursday he believes "it takes four eyes" to maneuver a car a long distance. Of his wife's assignment on the trip that started last September, Carroll says: "She was backseat driving all the way, because I asked her to."

Copper Prices Jump of Eve of Panel Meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — A three-man panel meets for the first time following a government report showing a three per cent jump in wholesale copper prices.

The three-man panel meets today with Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz to discuss the 6½-month-old dispute that has halted virtually all U.S. copper production and idled 60,000 workers.

The Labor Department, in reporting the two-month copper price increase Thursday, attributed it to the strike, saying manufacturers have had to buy more expensive supplies recovered from scrap metals.

Wednesday night's appointment of the panel was the first government action in the strike except for participation by federal mediators in negotiations.

The panel is expected to open talks soon with both union and industry officials.

Panel members are George Reedy, former press secretary to President Johnson and now president of Struthers Research & Development Corp. in Washington; Dr. George W. Taylor, professor of industry at the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School of Business, who has helped settle national labor disputes in the past; and the Rt. Rev. George Higgins, chairman of the National Catholic Conference in Washington, who has also worked in settling labor disputes.

The strike, which began last July 15, involves 26 unions demanding pay scales ranging from $3.01 to $4.25 per hour, compared with the present range of $2.61 to $3.68. The last known company offers were to boost present scales to a range of $2.89 to $4.09 over three years.

One smaller firm, the White Pine Copper Co. in White Pine, Mich., reached a settlement Thursday with its 1,850 employees, reportedly offering a wage hike-fringe benefits package totaling 95 cents an hour over 42 months to $4.38.

Auto Ring Broken in Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — The FBI Thursday broke up what it said was a stolen auto ring which allegedly transported cars from Chicago to the south using fake auto titles which the ring printed.

Three men were arrested and three more were being sought by the FBI.

Those arrested were Frederick P. Gardner, 49, Merwyn J. Erickson, 29, and Dale E. Peterson, 27.

When agents arrested Peterson in his south side home, they found printing equipment which was allegedly used to produce counterfeit titles for stolen cars, the FBI said.

The three are charged with transporting six late model cars stolen in Chicago during the summer to Blytheville, Ark. Federal warrants were issued Jan. 24 in Little Rock, Ark., charging the three with interstate transportation of stolen property and conspiracy to transport stolen property.

The three other men named in the Arkansas warrants who were being sought were Peter V. Ukelich, John B. Hankins and Roger C. Calbeck. Their home addresses were not disclosed.

Erickson and Peterson have also been charged in a Miami, Fla., warrant with transporting a stolen car to Florida from Chicago.

Gardner and Peterson appeared before the U.S. Commissioner in Chicago Thursday and were freed on $10,000 bond.

Shocked That Cities Pay C of C Dues

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — J. Bill Becker, state president of the AFL-CIO, said Thursday the recent disclosure that more than 60 Arkansas cities currently pay dues to the chambers of commerce was shocking.

Becker said organized labor would attempt to stop "these wholly payments."

"It is macabre that this practice has spread to some 60 cities in Arkansas," Becker said. "It is almost unbelievable that any would subsidize private organizations with tax monies."

North Little Rock Alderman Don Garrison asked Atty. Gen. Joe Purcell earlier this week to rule on the legality of the payments.

"Such practices are patently immoral and in our judgement are illegal even if the cities go to the legislature for approval," Becker said. "I believe the courts would strike any statute down."

Plot to Rob Banks, Blast Plant, Foiled

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — The FBI has arrested seven men and accused them of plotting to blow up a police station and power plant and then rob four banks Friday while the police were diverted.

The FBI said some were members of the Minutemen, described by the federal agency as an anti-Communist organization. However, in Norborne, Mo., Robert DePugh, chief of the Minutemen, said only one name was familiar to him.

FBI agents arrested four of the men Friday in a car in a parking lot in Lake City, just north of Seattle. Three others were seized in another car in a parking lot in Bellevue.

Agents said floor plans of the banks, 10 gasoline containers rigged as firebombs, nine sticks of dynamite, blasting caps, a pipe bomb, a .32-caliber pistol and two .38-caliber pistols were found in the cars.

The FBI said the seven planned to rob three banks in Redmond, a few miles south and east of Lake City and Bellevue, and another in Des Moines, just south of Seattle, after blowing up the police station in the Redmond City Hall and a power plant in Redmond.

Federal agents said the men were led by Duane Ivan Carlson, 35, of Seattle, described by the FBI as a fulltime Minutemen employee.

De Pugh said Carlson probably was a Minuteman at one time "although I do not have any records before me. I believe he was dropped about a year ago for nonpayment of dues. The other names are not familiar to me, but I don't know anything about them. Carlson was, I believe, state chairman for the Patriotic Party and helped arrange some meetings and lectures for me in Washington."

Besides Carlson, the others arrested were Joseph David Hourie, 20, of Seattle, an employee of a grocery chain; Ervin John White, 41, of Edmonds, a self-employed draftsman; Jerome Nicholas Henderson Sr., 57, of Bothell, a church sexton and part-time maintenance man; Kelly E. DeLano, 24, of Tacoma, a civilian driver at Ft. Lewis, near Tacoma; Milton James Dix, 34, of Seattle, a longshoreman, and Jerome Nicholas Diermeyer, 43, of Arlington, an unemployed ship's officer.

They were arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Walter R. Resburg on charges of conspiracy to rob a bank. Bail ranged from $500 for Dix to $30,000 for Carlson. By late Friday the only one to post bail was Dix.

Federal agents said the men designated themselves by numbers—001 through 007—in a conspiracy authorities said they had been aware of for several weeks.

Resburg said a search warrant was issued Thursday with the consent of U.S. Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark to permit an informer to attend a meeting with an "electronic device." The complaint said that through the search warrant "evidence has been obtained of conversations of the defendants which indicate that they met (Thursday) to complete plans for the Redmond bank robberies."

States Trying to Combat Traffic Deaths

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Michigan and Tennessee, trying different methods to combat increased death on the highways, achieved startling success in 1967 and both states ended the year with fewer traffic fatalities than in 1966.

Tennessee's reduction appeared more spectacular because, through July, the death count was running 96 ahead of the previous year and the state was headed for another black record.

In Michigan, authorities attributed the decline to a new law aimed at drinking drivers, an increased number of vehicle inspection lanes and improved law enforcement. Michigan's drop in deaths was gradual over 12 months.

LSD Means a Trip to Tragedy, Only Safe Thing Is Not Use It

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

One whiff and Dr. Albert Hofmann was gone. The trip was not pleasant nor was the discovery, for the researcher had accidentally discovered lysergic acid diethylamide (LSD). The year was 1938.

Some 30 years later this powerful destroyer of the human central control mechanism is taking its toll of young adults in the U. S. between 18 and 30 years of age.

LSD is not just a phenomenon of our day that hooks a few rebellious hippies. Unlike heroin and other habit-forming drugs of users who tend to come from urban ghettos, LSD attracts what many would describe as the "better element" of American society: students, professionals, educated people.

What is LSD? Why are so many seemingly intelligent young people attracted to it? To answer those questions let's look at a "trip," the hallucinatory period that occurs after taking the drug. It usually lasts from 8 to 12 hours. On a "good trip" the participants' senses are heightened and distorted to fantastic proportions. Many claim they "taste" colors and "smell" sounds. They become obsessed with an object such as a light bulb or tree and profess to feel at one with it. They become ecstatic over their experiences.

A "bad trip," on the other hand, becomes a nightmare from which some never fully recover. Both species of "trips" are likely to cause accidents. Experts theorize that one reason so many seemingly stable, ordinary persons take LSD is that they believe it is not habit forming. The experts point out, however, that even stable persons can get "lost."

After another LSD-gear crash, police reported the driver kept trying to climb the jail cell wall, yelling, "I'm a graham cracker. Oooooops, my arm crumbled off." One flung himself out a window, believing he could fly, and another drowned because he believed he could walk on water.

Law enforcement officers are concerned about parents who are slow to recognize that it may be their children who are experimenting with a drug that distorts perceptions to the point where actions are no longer controllable. Many of those on trips no longer are under supervision of parents, though, and are the young adults with, perhaps, homes of their own.

LSD means a Trip to Tragedy, and the only safety precaution is: don't take the stuff—not even once.

10 Districts Could Lose School Aid

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Education Department reported Thursday that failure to comply with federal civil rights legislation was causing 10 Arkansas school districts to lose all of their federal aid-to-education funds.

They are Fordyce, Bright Star (Miller County), Junction City, Hazen, Stamps, Collins (Drew County), Lawson (Union County), Elaine (Phillips County), Strong (Union County) and a small part of Fulton County not in other districts.

W. H. Moore, associate state commissioner of education for federal programs, said Elaine District was cut off from federal funds Dec. 19 and Strong Jan. 18. He said his office already has been notified that Urbana has been placed on the deferred list.

Arkansas will lose $346,279 in funds as a result of the districts' non compliance.

Says 100,000 in Arkansas Due Wage Hike

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Dotson Collins, state Labor Commissioner, said Thursday that more than 100,000 Arkansas residents would receive pay raises Feb. 1 as the result of increases in the federal minimum wage law.

Workers engaged in interstate commerce or in the production of goods for interstate commerce will be raised from $1.40 to $1.60 an hour. The minimum for workers who were brought under the Fair Labor Standards Act by the 1966 amendments will go up from $1 to $1.15 an hour.

Hired workers on large farms will receive a boost from $1 to $1.15 and will be raised to $1.30 an hour Feb. 1, 1969.

Employees of large hotels, motels and restaurants, workers in laundries and dry cleaning establishments, and employees of hospitals and nursing homes are among those who will be covered by the new $1.15 minimum. Their minimum wage is to increase 15 cents every year until it reaches $1.60 on Feb. 1, 1971.

Military May Act in Korean Crisis

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Official sources report President Johnson still seeks a diplomatic solution to the Korean crisis but that if the U.S. Pueblo and her crew aren't released by North Korea in a matter of days he will urgently consider proposals for further military action.

U.S. officials, in reporting this, pointed to the President's surprise broadcast to the nation Friday afternoon as providing evidence his diplomatic activities at the United Nations, Moscow and elsewhere are backed by the potential for military action if peaceful means fail.

"We have taken and are taking certain precautionary measures," Johnson said, "to make sure that our military forces are prepared for any contingency that might arise in the area."

These actions do not involve a reduction in any way of our forces in Vietnam.

The President already has ordered the call-up of nearly 14,800 Air Force reservists.

At the Defense Department preparatory activity was under way in the National Guard Bureau and Reserve offices. Name lists and equipment inventories were being checked.

Some authorities speculated Johnson's next mobilization move could be to call up a National Guard division, but the President has not announced any decision.

Three Guard divisions have had stepped-up training in recent years and their equipment supply has been improved. These are the 28th Infantry in Pennsylvania, Maryland and Ohio; the 38th in Indiana, Illinois and Michigan; and the 47th in Minnesota, Oklahoma and Wisconsin.

At full strength, a division normally numbers about 14,000 men.

Johnson's brief television-radio address was among many developments related to the seizure of the U.S. intelligence ship and her crew of 81 sailors and two civilians.

The United States told the U.N. Security Council it is essential to peace that steps be taken to assure the release of the ship and her crew. But the Soviet Union sided with North Korea and rejected the U.S. plea. The council was to resume debate today.

— U.S. defense officials said a Soviet intelligence-gathering ship, the Gidrogiz, is in the midst of a U.S. task force, including the carrier Enterprise, off South Korea, but no action is being taken because the scene is in international waters.

— The State Department said the Soviet government had rebuffed a second U.S. request for help in getting release of the ship and her crew. Ambassador Llewellyn Thomas conferred with Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko in Moscow, his second meeting with a Soviet official since the seizure.

— Although apprehension was growing in Seoul, the South Korean capital, U.S. officers there apparently expected no mass land war. But all ground forces were on the alert along the 151-mile demilitarized zone separating North and South Korea.

— State Department officials gathered diplomatic representatives of the 16 countries which fought North Korea in the Korean War and briefed them on the crisis.

— The State Department said any move by North Korea to try the Pueblo crew would be considered "a deliberate aggravation of an already serious situation." A broadcast from Pyongyang, North Korea's capital, had called the crew "criminals" who must be dealt with by law.
